Title, and institutional affiliation _____

The Center's images - other than those covered by the General Restrictions Policy Statement and any specific restrictions - are accessible to the public, subject to the Center's prior granting of written permission for use as designated on this form, and subject to restrictions of federal copyright law and/or any collection-specific stipulations. These conditions apply to all formats of the images, including but not limited to digital/electronic, photographic, microfilm, and xerographic photo-reproduction. This form is to be completed before any of the Center's images are electronically copied or used by any entity other than the Center of Southwest Studies itself.

CONDITIONS OF USE: Please save a copy of this form so you will know the commitments you have made.

In consideration of the Center's supplying you ("the user") with a copy of an image, the user agrees:

1. to accept responsibility regarding questions of copyright and/or invasion of privacy that may arise in the use of this material, and
2. to use the image only once and then only for the purpose stated on this form (any subsequent use of an image requires the written permission of the Center and the payment of additional fees prior to any use; the Center does not allow its images to be used out of context or modified in any way that affects the historical integrity of the image), and not to authorize others to use the image(s) for any reason, and
3. to credit each individual reproduction to the Center of Southwest Studies. Proper credit must also be given to the creator if known. The preferred citation is as follows:

Used by permission of Fort Lewis College, Center of Southwest Studies, [collection title], [creator's name, if known],[call number or image file number].

The Center hereby requests, and is appreciative of receiving, a free copy of any publication or production using image(s) reproduced from the Center's collections.

NOTICE: WARNING CONCERNING COPYRIGHT RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be "used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement. This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law.

The Center of Southwest Studies reserves the right to limit the number of image copies; to restrict the use or reproduction of rare, valuable, or fragile items; to ensure that the use of the reproductions is in good taste; to make special quotations on items involving unusual difficulty in reproducing; and to charge a higher cost than specified for reproduction of a small number of special items. The Center will make just one contact print and digital scan directly from a glass plate negative (to produce a copy negative from the contact print); all subsequent photoprints and digital image files will be produced from the copy negative or from the master image. The Center reserves the right to require a proof for approval before publication.

The Center of Southwest Studies gives no exclusive rights for the use of its materials. Permission is granted for a one-time use only. Any subsequent use of an image requires the written permission of the Center and the payment of additional fees.
