Faithful and Esteemed Klansman:

I am impressed with the necessity for Klan service in America as never before. Some weeks ago, I wrote you with regard to one branch of our service, The Empire Mutual Life Insurance Company.

I have not as yet heard from you. I assure you that I am deeply concerned about this branch of service. If we are to continue to have that place in American affairs which belongs to us, we must cease to have our insurance dollars work against our purposes. I am enclosing a booklet which explains somewhat what I mean.

Can I get you to interest yourself to the extent of getting behind this effort in your community, or at least taking some insurance with a company that will do as much for you as any other company and will use its resources for the advancement of Klankraft throughout America?

Won't you at least let me hear from you on this matter?

With kindest personal regards, I beg leave to remain

Faithfully yours,
In the Sacred Unfailing Bond,

H. W. Evans
